MANY LEGION MEN FOR SHAM BATTLE

DELEGATIONS FROM SURROUNDING COUNTIES TO BE HERE

BIG GUNS TO BE USED

Scene of Battle Will Be Held On College Campus At 7 O'Clock In Evening

All the American Legion posts in Nodaway County and in the surrounding counties will be represented by delegations that will take part in the sham battle which will take place on Reunion Day of the Maryville Fall Fiesta and Exposition, October 5. It will be attempted by Battery C of the National Guard and the Legion posts to make this sham battle as realistic as possible and those in charge of the affair are working hard to secure as many American Legion men to participate in the sham battle as possible.

The sham battle is to be held on the southwest part of the College campus, at 7 o'clock in the evening, the attacking forces divided into two divisions, each division composed of both artillery and infantry. Fire works, night bombs and flares will be used in connection with the reports of the infantry rifles, the light cannons and the battery of four French 75's that Battery C has. The committee is spending several hundreds of dollars for the bombs and the fire works that will be displayed in the evening.

One thousand rounds of amunition has been secured for the small fire arms. The big guns will be planted early in the day. The battle is to consist of an attack by each opposing force and then a counter attack, the ridge of the east edge of the campus to be used as a sort of trench over which one of the divisions will rush.

In order to get as many Legion men here for the sham battle during the Fall Fiesta and Exposition several men from Maryville are out this week visiting the neighboring Legion posts in an effort to have the ex-service men come here. It is expected that the towns of Bedford, Shenandoah, Rock Port, Savannah, Stanberry, Grant City, Mound City, Tarkio and the towns of Nodaway County represented by delegations from the American Legion posts.

Mellon May Recommend Tax Reduction

Steadily Increasing Income Assures Tax Cut By Next Congress—Big Surplus This Year

Washington, Sept. 24—The government ledger will show a surplus of 400 million dollars for this fiscal year, as a result of a steadily increasing income and the economy program of the government.

This figure is double that of previous surpluses and assures a reduction of federal taxes by the next Congress.

Just what form this reduction will take is not yet officially known.

Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, will defer for some time announcement of his recommendations to Congress. The recommendations, however, will be framed within the next thirty days, as some of the phases of tax reduction already have been the subject for discussion by the President and his Cabinet.

GOD DID NOT CAUSE JAPAN EARTHQUAKE

SAYS THE REV. JOSEPH A. COOPER LAST NIGHT

OUR GOD IS JUST

"Japanese Earthquake Simply Brought About By Natural Physical Conditions of Earth"

"I could not worship a God that would send down upon the world a disaster such as the Japanese earthquake," said the Rev. Joseph A. Cooper in his sermon on "Was God in the Japanese Disaster?" given at the Baptist Church last night.

"Our God is a just God and he could not do a thing like that," Mr. Cooper continued. "The Japanese earthquake was simply brought about by natural physical conditions of the earth and was not the direct result of God's wishes."

The Reverend Mr. Cooper pointed out that the world is a natural world, containing natural people to battle with natural physical conditions. When God made the world, He was not concerned about making a perfect physical world, Mr. Cooper said.

The Baptist minister contended that it is impossible to judge a person or a world by one brief incident in the history of the world or person.

"For instance, the history of our own United States during the last four or five years is not altogether to our credit," he continued, "but if we will go back to 1776 and study the history of our country to the present time, we have just reason to be proud of it. Our interest in the world was again made plain when we contributed seven million dollars to relief work in Japan."

The speaker went on the say that God made the world with certain physical conditions operating and that He did not propose to interfere in the world's physical actions.

Mr. Cooper said that it was the business of religion to interpret God in the world. He then told of the recent calamity and what it meant to the world—Japan especially. Figuring her loss in money in terms of military units, it reduced her from one of the leading military powers to a potential third or fourth rate power, took about 130,000 of her population and wiped out nearly five billion dollars of her property.

"But the Japanese earthquake is not a test of a good or bad world," Mr. Cooper said. "The test of a world is whether it has in it the elements that make for character—goodness, faith and industry.

"This test will show that we are living in a kind of a world in which a poor boy, obtaining his education by the dim light of a fireplace, can become President of the United States; it's the kind of a world in which a blind, deaf and dumb girl can be graduated from two universities. This is the kind of a world in which we are livng.

"The real question, finally, is as to whether or not the world is a good world, and that means, at least to Christian people, whether or not God is a good and just God. The answer to this question may not be had by judgment of God's nature, either in whole or in part. The final answer to the question as to God's character and His relationship to man was made by the Christ, who came in the world, as He said, expressly to demonstrate God's nature. He said, 'He who hath seen me hath seen the Father.'

"The way to keep faith in God, to keep faith in the movements of life, is to remember that Christ was God and to judge God and His relationship to us in terms of that nature and character which were Christ's."

1800 HEARS TALKS AT CATHOLIC DAY

50th ANNIVERSARY OF BENEDICTINES ARRIVAL COMMEMORATED

4 PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Voted To Hold Day Next Year; Probably At Some Town Other Than Conception

The excellent co-operation among the several religious sects and the good fellowship that existed in Northwest Missouri, particularly Nodaway County, was the keynote of speakers who delivered addresses at the third annual Nodaway Catholic Day at Conception yesterday. The occasion was the fiftieth anniversary of the arrival of the Benedictines at Conception. The Reverend Father Placid of Conception was the originator of Nodaway County Catholic Day three years ago.

Addresses were delivered by statewide prominent men. An attendance of approximately 1,800 is estimated, and it is thought that many more would have attended if the condition of the roads had been better. The Reverend Father Placid said there were more than 300 automobiles and about 350 teams parked around the College grounds. Dinner and supper were served by the ladies of the parish.

At 10 o'clock in the morning solemn pontifical high mass was given at the Abbey Church and the sermon was preached by the Rev. George Jermain of Des Moines, Ia.

Gives History of Church.

His sermon dealt with the history of the Catholic Church, from its beginning 1900 years down through the centuries, and then told of the time fifty years ago when the Reverend Frow in took charge of the Abbey at Conception. He spoke of Catholic Day and of Catholicism, as it is of one faith and should give and unite the people closer together.

The afternoon program started at 2 o'clock with James Lynch of near Conception in charge of the program. Dr. H. J. Waters of the Weekly Kansas City Star was first introduced. Doctor Waters, who is an authority on agriculture, having been president of the Kansas Agricultural School, spoke on "The Problems That Confront the People on the Farms." Doctor Waters pointed out early in his address that there is nothing more fundamentally important to the economic development of the country than the rise of land and of the farmer and his family on the land. He said that if the agricultural lessons were taken out of the Bible, the Bible indeed would be weak.

That there must be an intimate relation between agriculture and religion is of great importance, and that if religion was taken away from those that till the soil, agriculture could exist only for a short time. For the past seventy-five years the farmers have not had a fair chance for the profits of his business. Doctor Waters explained, and that the prices the farmers now get do not correspond to the rise in the price of his land.

Financial Returns Small.

Doctor Waters said that the farms do not yield enough financial returns as the same money invested in cities would bring forth and he asked where are we going to turn now to receive reasonable profits since in the past the greatest return the farmers has experienced is the rise in the value of the land.

WORLD MUST RELY UPON MORAL FORCE

SAYS PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IN FIRST PUBLIC ADDRESS

PRAISES RED CROSS

"It is the Spiritual Conception of Human Relationships," He Tells National Red Cross Convention

Washington, Sept. 24—The hope of real progress in the future lies in the knowledge that "civilization is coming to rely more and more upon moral force, not upon armies and navies, for settlement of world problems," President Coolidge declared today in an address before the annual convention of the American Red Cross.

"The American Red Cross," the President said, "is the spiritual conception of human relationships. It is life to things that are weak. Throughout history, men have been prone to put their trust in other things and have failed. They have sought power through material resources alone. They have attempted to rely upon naked forces of armies and navies.

"These are necessary for security as police criminal courts are necessary. They are adjuncts for peace, but they are negative forces.

"They do not create; they resist. They do not make the final determination among men. Over them is a higher power."

This was President Coolidge's first public address since he attained this office. As President, also, of the Red Cross, he formally opened the convention which was attended by over a thousand delegates from all over the country.

Miss Betty Turner, secretary of the Nodaway County chapter of the American Red Cross is in Washington, attending this convention.

The farmer does business on a different basis than in any other industry, Doctor Waters said, and he, the farmer, is competing with farmers of the world, that prices are determined in Liverpool and that no other producers sell in this manner. The most serious problem the farmer has to face today is how he is going to derive reasonable profits from the crops that are raised.

Doctor Waters spoke of the standard of living comparison with that in other countries, and before the war. He said that the profits from the wheat and corn goes now for automobiles and picture shows, explaining that there exists today a higher standard of living and saying that nobody is more entitled to an automobile than those living in the rural districts. But he went on to say that a time will be reached when it will be difficult to adjust the condition and standard of living and that the financial returns from labor and capital in cities cannot be lowered, but that the prices on the farm products must be raised to meet the urban prices.

Idleness In Cities

Doctor Waters spoke of the idleness of the people in the cities, especially among the women and children, in comparison to the labor on the farms, and he said a time will arrive when the farmers will come to the people in the cities and demand that they do as much labor as those in the farming areas. He said that where one group remains idle and one group works is intolerable and cannot exist. The Doctor concluded by mentioning farmer organizations. He told the audience that the farmers should remain loyal to their organizations but always try and be fair, as they have the price remedy in their own hands if only they exert the influence. If the organizations do not give a square deal and play fair, they will not stand.

Barney E. Reilly of St. Joseph, an attorney, spoke on the "Duty of the Catholic Toward His Government." Mr. Reilly followed events in history showing how the Roman Catholics have always defended the government under which they lived, giving examples of mighty war leaders, explorers and diplomats who have given their efforts for the furthering of the country.

Attacks On Church

Mr. Reilly spoke some on the attacks that have been made by individuals and newspapers on the Catholics and their religion, saying that it is the uneducated radicals who cry out against Catholics. The duties of the Catholic toward his government, as Mr. Reilly sees them are faith in God, loving and helpful service and cooperation with all, a ready response to the colors in war and in peace time succor the poor; in all, to give aid to anyone, no matter what religion he professes. He also denounced the vile newspapers that have been attacking the Catholics.

Requisites For Citizenship

Dr. Fred Keller of the State Teachers College brought forth the splendid relationship and good fellowship that existed between the Protestants and Catholics in Northwest Missouri, saying that if such a co-operation prevailed throughout the country there would be no cause for any disruption or ill feeling between religions. Doctor Keller had for his theme "Citizenship," giving seven fundamentals: good fellowship; steady employment, which means more attention to labor; respect for law and order; the stability of the home; a limit on immigration to a certain degree; the maintenance of public schools and love and respect for the Divine Being. Doctor Keller spoke on the splendid way in which the Catholics and Protestants work together in Nodaway County.

Philip On Education

The Rt. Reverend Abbot Philip of Conception Abbey concluded the afternoon's speeches with a short address on "Education." The Reverend Philip spoke on education in general, explaining what education was and not as it appeared to some today. He said the word education in Latin means "to lead out or away from something," and that something is away from low conditions. Education consists in training the individuals heart as well as the brain and that if this is not done properly at home before the child goes to school education will be a failure, the Reverend Philip said, and further pointed out that education must begin before the intellect of the child awakens. He further said that education and training are different. The foundation for education must be secured in the home. It is the formation in us of Christ over again." If an individual loves the work in which he is engaged, science will come by itself.

Program Next Year

The Very Reverend Patrick Cummins, rector of the International Benedictine College of St. Anslem, Rome, Italy, who was scheduled to talk on "Rome and the Pope" has been in Conception but was called away before the meeting yesterday. Also the Rt. Rev. Francis Gilfillan, Bishop of St. Joseph was unable to be at Conception yesterday as he left Sunday for a conference of bishops at Washington, D. C.

At the end of the program it was voted to hold Nodaway County Catholic Day again next year and the Rt. Rev. Abbot Philip suggested that it be held at some other place in the county than at Conception, as the last three anniversaries have been commemorated at Conception.

Following the Vesper services at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon a baseball game was hotly contested by the nine from the College at Conception and the team of Clyde Parish.

Now that it will not be so very long until the bathing girls' pictures disappear from the newspapers and the magazines, we would like to ask if you ever remember seeing a picture which the maidens looked as if they had been in the water.

"The night has a thousand eyes" we often quote. But it has nothing on the woman who lives across the street.

Since hair bobbing has become so general the market ha sbeen glutted with hair and there is little chance for a woman to sell her switch for a good sum any more, a barber tells us.

"The only people who can beat a baby at howling," the court house cynic, observed to us the other day, "are the minority."

Since the installment plan was invented it is no trouble for people to get into debt so deeply that it will take them a life time to pay out, a collector tells us.

We some times can forgive the movie title reader but the person who uncorks his giggle at a dramatic moment is beyond the pale, a movie fan tells us.

We do not believe we are so wicked a race as some claim as it is our observation that the average man generally lacks the initiative to be thoroughly bad.

It seems a lot of girls misinterpreted the bare arm dress style. They evidently thought it included the shoulder and half of the back.

Louise, the stenographer, says the world may owe you a living but she has noticed that about the only thing it ever hands you is a brick.

When a woman can't think of anything else mean to say of a young and stunning woman she will remark that she would like to see how she will look in ten years.

A lot of people have started out looking for something and found a heap of experience.

The city editor eyed the new reporter in the corner. "What are you doing," he snapped. "Nothing" meekly replied the scared scribe. "Well get busy the managing editor might look in and find both of us doing the same thing."

It too often happens that after we get the thing we wanted we find we wish we did not have it.

Vagrant Musings

The employee who does not know his place will not hold it very long. The reason so many flappers let their mothers do the housework is because they don't wish the parent to grow old from lack of exercise.

Before she gets hims he thinks he can do no wrong but after she has him she thinks he can't do right.

A glib tongue enables a lot of people to conceal what they think.

Too many of us, who give with one hand, advertise it with the other.

Blazing the Way

PERHAPS the outstanding characteristics of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and its success lies in the fact that in all of its activities it has had to establish precedent—there was none to follow.

For this reason it was forced to delve far into science—to analyze—to deduce—to conclude—to act.

It was the task of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to eliminate haphazard—to eliminate the speculative.

If the products of petroleum were to be a staple and become an integral part in the operation of other industries, the entire process of refining petroleum must be based on scientific accuracy.

It was on this premise that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) established its immense research laboratories, equipping with every modern facility.

The findings of the men in these laboratories have contributed much to the success of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and enabled it to earn its rightful position as a leader in the industry.

Scores of new products have been evolved in these laboratories. All were taken from the single base—crude petroleum. They have enabled you to partake of many of the refinements of life and to enjoy comforts that otherwise would have been denied you.

Viewed broadly, the pioneer work of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has done much to stabilize industry; to put production on a standard of accuracy; to reduce the cost of commodities; to develop new methods; to give inventive genius a starting point.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has not confined its pioneering alone to the manufacturing and selling of petroleum products.

It has inaugurated new methods of industrial relations within its own organization that have gone a long way towards solving the problems confronting industry generally.

Thus, by blazing its own trail has the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) grown big—big in size and big in service—to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

And Now—Profit in Farming Without the Drudgery

FORDSON power makes more productive seed beds. The tractor does its work so rapidly and does so much of the heavy work of farming, that farm drudgery is passing. Expenses are reduced. Better crops are grown.

In the bringing about of this new era, the Oliver No. 7 Plow has been the working partner of the Fordson. It is so light running and so scientifically designed that its work has made it a reputation enjoyed by no other tractor plow.

It is extremely easy to handle. Depth is adjusted by moving a lever that operates a jack. So easy is this done that most drivers do not stop or slow down to make a change in the plowing depth.

The power lift is tripped by simply touching a rod which is so convieniently placed that the driver need not turn his head to operate it. There is no side draft because the plow is in perfect alignment with the tractor.

To farm the Fordson way means so small an investment that it is within easy reach of every farmer. Come in and see the Oliver No. 7 gang and you, too, will decide to farm the Fordson way.

Haseman Says Hessian Fly Ca nbe Eliminated

Missouri University Professor Gives Four Lines of Work That Should Be Followed.

Leonard Haseman, entomologist of the Missouri College of Agriculture at Columbia, says that four lines of work carefully carried out will rid any region of the Hessian fly in one year.

These include frist, the plowing under of all infested stubble soon after harvest; second, the working of the ground to firm it and prevent the growth of volunteer wheat; third, seeding wheat on or soon after the fly-free date; fourth, securing the cooperation of all wheat growers in the vicinity to do the same. But the question is raised, can this be done?

It can and has been done in Missouri over entire counties. In 1916, Madison County was heavily overrun by the pest and most fields of wheat, scarcely made seed. Following harvest the wheat growers got together and carried out the foregoing treatments almost to a man and the 1917 crop was completely saved from injury.

Is World's Foremost Shakespearean Scholar

St. Louis Paper Says Charles W. Wallace, Born In Hopkins, Is Rendering Distinguished Service

Sunday's St. Louis Globe-Democrat had the following editorial about Prof. Charles W. Wallace, who was born in Hopkins:

Another striking entry has been made in the record of a learned Missouri man, who has rendered distinguished service to the cause of education, though unfortunately his own state has been only indirectly the beneficiary. This is Prof. Charles W. Wallace, born fifty-eight years ago at Hopkins, Mo., and held with undoubted accuracy to be the world's foremost Shakespearean scholar.

It was while Mr. Wallace was professor of English at the University of Nebraska, after successful years in upbuilding the educational system of his adopted state, that he was given a leave of absence in 1909 to pursue Shakespearean studies in England. The leave of absence was extended to 1916 and what this man of the remote American West did after venturing on the ground of the native experts on Elizabethan literature was long the sensation of the schools. His discoveries, perhaps, are not to be deemed so important in themselves, but were remarkable because made in a field supposed long before to be completely explored and because the data as to the great poet's life was so painfully meager and uncertain that any additions were bound to command the deepest interest. In fact, it is said that the only new things found out about the chief English poet in well onto two centuries must be credited by the British Shakespearean Brahmas to this outsider born 4000 miles away. He discovered in London a new signature of the playwright, specimens of whose handwriting are wofully scarce, unearthed new facts about his career as a theater proprietor, established the name of his landlord, a Frenchman, and from legal papers dug out details from which new deductions as to the Shakespeare biography are made. In this work more than 5,000,000 original records are said to have been examined by him and by Mrs. Wallace, his devoted assistant in the undertaking.

His funds being utterly exhausted by the time his leave of absence ended, he returned to the scant rewards of his teaching in Nebraska, writing in the meanwhile much on his specialty and delivering lectures in institutions of higher learning. But to his Park avenue home in Lincoln many reports came of fortunes made in the oil regions. How many teachers and others have had the same visionary idea he had—of making a big strike in get-rich-quick ventures to obtain the means for forwarding their favorite line of research? When in any other case has such a vain hope led to anything? But it did lead to something in Mr. Wallace's case. He must have retained a shrewd Scotch business insight, for as investor and broker in oil and oil lands at Wichita Falls, Tex., he was amazingly successful. A Rockefeller on a small scale, he has recently sold out his business and holdings for more than $1,000,000 and is able to establish his own foundation for research, independent of the less learned affluent type of his countrymen.

Now Prof. and Mrs. Wallace will go back to England to examine, may-hap, millions more of old dusty documents, perhaps to make other discoveries as illuminating as those of 1909-16, at any rate to leave nothing of promise in their search undone because of a lack of ample resources. It is a story with new embellishments of patient labor crowned with a series of successes so dazzling as not to be hoped for by those untouched by laudable aspiration. And isn't it a worthy field in which this brilliant Missourian is engaged, one from which this brilliant Missourian is engaged, one from which suggestive new phases and new meanings are introduced into the career of the author to whom we owe one of the greatest monuments in all literature?

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donahue and family, Mrs. William Donahue and Misses Margaret and Alice Donahue attended the Nodaway County Catholic Day celebration at Conception yesterday.

What a Condensary Means in One County

The following article from the Implement and Tractor Trade Journal about what the new $250,000 Condensary means to the people of Lawrence County, Mo., will be of interest here as a condensary is needed in this county:

Some two and a half years ago farseeing farmers and business men in Lawrence County, Missouri, began agitating the milk condensary question. They churned away at it vigorously and patiently, month after month. Now "butter has come."

Work has started on a big condensary at Mount Vernon. It will cost a quarter of a million dollars and at the start will receive about 60,000 pounds of milk a day, which is another way of saying thirty tons. Eventually, it is planned, the plant will be receiving more than four times that amount.

Farmers around Mount Vernon are taking to the idea like the proverbial ducks to water. Among others, L. L. Hunt, county agricultural extension agent, has been active in the work of developing dairy farming in Lawrence County.

Four From Eleven Is Seven

Two years ago around Mount Vernon the average farmer had four milk cows. Today, after Mr. Hunt and the others have been churning the condensary question, the average number of milk cows in the same territory is eleven. And the end is still out of sight.

In response to inquiries put by the Implement & Tractor Trade Journal, County Agent Hunt gives this account of the condencary campaign and what its successful conclusion means to his part of Missouri:

"The location of this condencary is the result of three years' of dairy promotion work in Lawrence County. The movement for a milk condensary was started two years and a half ago by the local Farm Bureau. The Chamber of Commerce of Mt. Vernon, Miller, Aurora, Monett, and Pierce City were called upon for help and all responded. The combined efforts of all caused them to choose this territory and they finally picked Mt. Vernon.

"Dairy promotion in this territory has not been without results. Complete surveys of some school districts around Mt. Vernon over two years ago showed an average of four cows to the farm while a similar survey two months ago showed an avorage of eleven. The acreage of wheat in the county has been reduced from 50 percent to 75 percent in two years and the land put into grass and other dairy crops. The greatest increase has been with the Jersey breed, although we now have about fifty heards of Holsteins where two years ago there were only about five.

"During July and August over 250 head of dairy cattle were brought into this territory. We now have a carload of Holstein bulls on the road from Wisconsin to be distributed among the farmers in the vicinity of Mt. Vernon. These bulls are all of the same blood line, as we are establishing one line of breeding here.

Provide for Expansion

"The Carnation factory is now rapidly going up and about $250,000 will be put into the building. It is not the largest in the world but it will be the most modern plant of its kind yet built. They are contemplating on receiving 60,000 pounds of milk daily to start with and about 200,000 pounds in five years' time. Arrangements are being made for an addition that will make possible the handling of 250,000 pounds of milk daily.

"Territory covered will be about fifteen miles in every direction which will be just about the Lawrence County area. The people of this territory feel that this is the greatest thing that ever happened in the county and are planning on making it the center of the dairy industry in the southwest.

Movement Got Results

"Farmers as a whole are solidly back of the movement. Before the location they requested a meeting with the Carnation people which was accepted and with four days' notice a crowd of over 5,000 people, largely farmers, attended the meeting, urged the location here, and the company announced its decision to locate. Not a cent of bonus was given, no contracts signed as to amount of milk nor contracts made with farmers as to how much they would produce."

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS knocks out DYSPEPSIA

Women to attract must Radiate Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health—working silently.—Red blood tingling through the veins—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charm of beauty. Women gaze with envy secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs.

But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S., since 1826, has been ridding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

Crowds

Most everyone likes to see crowds, be in a crowd, or follow the crowd. There's something fascinating about a crowd. There's something irresistible—it makes you want to be there, and makes you hate to leave once you're there.

Then there's the crowd individually. You'll wonder if Henry Olden, your old neighbor, will be there, or if Sue Danville, who married that peculiar Caruther fellow, will be there and bring her children.

"Well I'll declare, I didn't expect to see you here," will be heard many a time when old friends and acquaintances unexpectedly meet in the crowd.

"Yes, I remember that I was there," will be an echo in the future from those who were in the crowd.

NOW IS TIME FOR CULLING OF HENS

SAYS G. K. ARNEY, AGRICULTURE INSTRUCTOR AT HIGH SCHOOL

HENS HAVE BEEN MARKED

Mr. Arney Gives Points to Look for in Culling Out Unprofitable Producers—Tells What to Sell.

"Cull your hens now," is the advice of G. K. Arney, instructor in agriculture at the Maryville High School.

Mr. Arney writes the following special article for the Democrat-Forum on this subject:

Do you cull your hens? If not, why not? In the very best flocks there are always some hens that are not profitable egg producers. Nature marks these hens in the fall and one can soon learn to pick them out. These boarder hens if kept on the farm will eat feed during the winter for which they will give little or no returns. Now is the time to pirk them out and sell them, thus cutting down the feed bill and giving the good hens more room and a better chance to show what they can do.

The following is a brief outline of the points to look for in culling out the unprofitable producers.

1. Sell all Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons, and other birds of the heavier types that have finished two laying seasons except the ones especially selected as breeders. Sell all Leghorns, Minorcas, Anconas, Campines and other birds of the lighter breeds, except the good breeders when they have finished three laying seasons.

2. Sell all weak, deformed, late hatched, slow-maturing undersized pullets. Keep all early hatched, quick maturing, vigorous, healthy, broad-backed, deep-bodied pullets.

3. Sell the following hens: Those that are weak, sick, overfat, that have molted, having yellow shanks in case of yellow skinned breeds, small hard abdomen, stiff pelvic bones close together or curved inward, small spread between the pelvic bones and rear end of keel (less than 3 fingers in light breeds and less than 4 fingers in heavy breeds) with yellow beaks or ear lobes in breeds which have white ear lobes.

Save the following hens: Those that are strong, active, healthy and which have not yet molted (Sept. 24), and in case of yellow skinned breeds those having pale shanks, ear lobes and beaks, soft pliable skin and fine, flexible pin bones, abdomen pliable and free from fat, good dept between pin bones and rear end of the keel, a broad, long back, deep broad breast.

Airplane Robbery Proves "Fluke"

Oklahoma City, Sept. 24—Oklahoma City believed for a time it was to have the distinction of having an airplane stolen from its bounds, but developments have proved that after all the "robbery" was no robbery at all, and charges against the alleged planes theif have been dismissed.

Pilot Tarbutton, who was accused of stealing the plane was given freedom when persons who filed charges paid the aviator the remainder due him on the machine. The pilot stated at the time of his arrest that he merely took the plane to protect his interest in it.

Fort Worth Hen Responsible For Ostrich-Sized Egg

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 24—The architect has his name engraved in the cornerstone of a great building, the artist signs his masterpiece, but Fort Worth has an anonymous heroine who seems content to remain unpraised in her distinctions.

Report has it that her name is "Biddy" and it is authentically stated she is a Black Minorca hen. The deed for which she seems unwilling to take due credit is the laying of an ostrich-sized egg on a pullet sized ration.

The hen is the property of S. L. Dillard here but he hasn't the slightest idea which one of his several hundred hens to honor, he says.

Measurements of the egg are 9½ inches around the largest circumference and 8½ inches around the girth. It weighs 6½ pounds, and though it has a very thin shell, still is in condition to remain on display.

Several extra grains of corn await the hen upon identification, the owner says.

Rapid Strides Made in Evangelistic Campaign

Second Ward Meeting to be Held Wednesday With W. L. Rhodes, 609 North Fillmore.

Rapid strides are being made in the preparations for the coonty-wide evangelistic campaign of the Christian Church of Nodaway County, which begins October 14, in Maryville. A number of the eighteen churches of the county have already begun their daily prayer services, which were outlined for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week.

A delegation committee is appointed in each church and community, which will have charge of local arrangements for the weekly visit in a body of that locality, and much interest is manifest among the several congregations.

The prayer services are for all Christian people, and not limited to members of the Christian Churches. Fine talent has been secured for the leadership of the Maryville meeting which will begin tomorrow, and the Democrat-Forum will contain announcements of these.

The meeting of the First Ward will be held at the home of W. C. Frank, 307 East Seventh street at 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening. The committee asks that every member of the church in that ward attend, and as many others as are interested in a constructive meeting and prayer service.

The meeting of the Second Ward will be held on Wednesday evening at the home of W. L. Rhodes, 609 North Fillmore, with a very interesting program and very efficient leadership. All members and others interested may attend. The general committee also asks inter-visitation for the exchange of ideas.
